TAMPICO UNDER A REIGN OF TERROR

Reese to bring them away accepting the uncomfortable quarters of the oil boat. At the time the Osage sailed the tanks of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company were burning and the firing was general all over the city. Neither force seemed to care where their bullets and shells landed and a large number of foreigners were injured on ships in the river. Capt. de Reese says he saw an American killed aboard the yacht Vikiva and two other foreigners shot to death on a dock after being pursued by Mexican troopers. F. Rabe, fourth engineer and Baeu Baurich, fireman, were wounded while asleep in their bunks on the Osage.

"The suffering from small pox is terrible," said Capt. de Reese, "some of the patients being without medical attention and are left to walk around the streets seeking food. Ham and eggs cost $2.50 in American money, and such a thing as beef is unknown save to a few fortunate ones."

Orders were issued by the federal commander at Tampico, according to Capt. de Reese, that no women or children should be taken aboard ships. Not knowing of this Capt. de Reese gave a large number of them protection during the heavy firing on the night of April 7. The federal commander came aboard his ship and threatened dire consequences if this occurred again.

ALBERTSON-BLACK

On Wednesday evening, April 15th, Mr. Edwin Albertson and Miss Lottie Mae Black were united in wedlock in the Presbyterian church at Weirsdale, Fla. Mr. Albertson is a fine young man. He was raised in Kansas and came here about two years ago, but returned to Kansas to live about one year afterward. Miss Black is one of Marion county's accomplished teachers. She was raised at Weirsdale and her many friends extend to them their hearty congratulations.

The church was decorated with green vines and cut flowers and the altar had a large arch with a large white wedding bell in the center where the bridal couple stood. While the guests were gathering Mrs. Boon Siles and Miss Mattie Albertson, sisters of the groom, sang a solo and were accompanied with violin music furnished by Mr. Boon Siles, and Mrs. Guthrie sang "O Promise Me." Then Mr. J. M. Douglas ushered in the organist, Mrs. Chas. E. Brown, of Webster, who played the wedding marches and at 8 o'clock sharp the wedding party appeared and as the organ pealed forth the march, little Miss Camp, the flower girl, wearing a dainty white dress with pink ribbons and Master Joe Black, the Bible bearer, carrying a white covered Bible, entered followed by Mrs. Lamar Kelsey as matron, in white chiffon over white satin, carrying a pink and white bouquet. Then came the bride in white lace over white satin, trimmed with crystal beads with long veil and wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Miss Juanita Lytle, wore white over pink. The bridesmaids, Miss Cora Murray and Miss Minnie Albertson, were gowned in white over pink. The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried white and pink bouquets. The groom, in conventional black, was attended by his brother, Mr. Milton Albertson as best man, and the groomsmen were Mr. Russell Gano and Mr. Fred Black. The groom met the bride at the altar and they took their places under the arch where they were joined in holy matrimony by the Rev. J. A. Logan, pastor of the church.

Afterwards the bridal party and relatives and a few of their closest friends went to the bride's home, where they received the congratulations and the guests were escorted into the library and were served with punch by the Misses Irene Gates and Willard Bishop. Then the bridal party and all were served with pink and white ice cream and pink and white cake. There were about 100 guests at the home. The color scheme was pink, white and green. The parlor and library were in green and white and the dining room in pink and white. The table had pink and white streamers from the center of the ceiling to each plate on the table which made a pretty sight and on the sideboard and mantle were burning 22 candles, the age of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertson received a great many presents, too numerous to mention, silver and cut glass predominating with lots of fancy china, table linen and fancy articles. There was a large table heaped up with presents, showing the esteem of their friends.

The out of town guests who came to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Will Davenport of Winter Haven, Mrs. Brown of Wauchula, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Priest of Oak, Mrs. Chas. E. Brown and Miss Irene Gates from Webster. Mrs. Priest and Mrs. Charles Brown were old schoolmates of the bride.

While every one was enjoying themselves the bride and groom slipped away and went to points south for a few days' visit, but will come back here and leave for Sedwick, Kansas, next Monday, where they will make their home, much to the regret of their friends as we would like to have this nice young couple settle with us. But what is our loss is Sedwick's gain. May a long and prosperous life be theirs.

A Friend.
